

Chris Cebollero

Position Sought: Treasurer

Candidate Background Information

Chris Cebollero has dedicated more than three decades to the emergency medical services profession as a clinician, educator, executive leader, author, and advocate. A military veteran and nationally recognized EMS leader, he currently serves as Chief Operating Officer of EMS Team, where he provides executive leadership for a multi-state ambulance organization, overseeing operations, strategic planning, financial performance, quality improvement, and organizational development.

His executive career reflects a progressive commitment to leadership and innovation in EMS. He began his leadership journey with MedStar Mobile Healthcare in Fort Worth, Texas, where he developed a strong operational foundation in a high-performance EMS system. He later served as Chief of EMS at Christian Hospital, leading emergency medical services and advancing operational and clinical excellence. He went on to become Chief Operating Officer of MedAware Solutions, helping EMS agencies improve operational performance and patient care through innovative technology and consulting. He then served as Head of Operations and Partner Success for QuikMedic, where he worked with EMS organizations nationwide to strengthen workforce solutions, operational efficiency, and strategic partnerships. Today, as Chief Operating Officer of EMS Team, he continues to focus on sustainable growth, fiscal stewardship, leadership development, and delivering exceptional patient care.

Chris holds a Doctor of Business Administration (DBA) with a concentration in Leadership and is an internationally recognized speaker on leadership, organizational culture, EMS operations, and professional development. He is a multi-time #1 bestselling author and has published numerous books and articles dedicated to leadership and emergency medical services.

A member of the National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians (NAEMT) since 1999, Dr. Cebollero has served the Association in numerous volunteer leadership roles. His service includes the Advanced Medical Life Support (AMLS) Committee, Chair of the Emergency Pediatric Care (EPC) Committee, Vice President of the NAEMT Foundation, member of the Professional Education and Programs Committee (PEPL), participant in the Lighthouse Leadership Program, and Affiliate Faculty for AMLS, EPC, and PHTLS. He currently serves on the NAEMT Board of Directors and the NAEMT Foundation Board, continuing his commitment to advancing the mission of the Association and strengthening the EMS profession.

Throughout his career, Chris has been recognized for his commitment to leadership development, education, operational excellence, and service to the EMS profession. His lifelong dedication to EMS, extensive executive leadership experience, and decades of service to NAEMT have prepared him to serve the Association as Treasurer with integrity, transparency, and sound financial stewardship.
