National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians
Nominations Committee and Voting Members

Dear Colleagues;

It is my pleasure to offer my wholehearted support for Macara Trusty's candidacy for Treasurer of the National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians.

I have known Macara for more than 15 years and had the privilege of working alongside her at MedStar Mobile Healthcare in Fort Worth, Texas. Throughout that time, I witnessed firsthand her commitment to the EMS profession, her strategic leadership abilities, and her exceptional financial and operational judgment.

Macara brings a unique combination of frontline EMS experience, executive leadership, business management expertise, and dedicated service to NAEMT. She has consistently demonstrated the ability to balance mission-driven priorities with fiscal responsibility, a skill that is essential for an effective Treasurer.

During our tenure at MedStar, Macara was responsible for developing annual zero-based budgets for her department. This process required every expense to be evaluated, justified, and aligned with organizational goals rather than relying on historical spending patterns. Working together, we helped ensure the organization maintained a balanced budget and operated from a position of financial strength. Her disciplined approach to resource management, accountability, and strategic decision-making consistently reflected the kind of fiscal stewardship that organizations depend upon for long-term success.

Beyond her financial expertise, Macara has devoted countless hours to advancing the EMS profession through leadership, education, advocacy, and service. Whether working within NAEMT, state EMS initiatives, or local agencies, she is known as a collaborative leader who brings people together, solves problems, and remains focused on what is best for the organization and those it serves.

Perhaps most importantly, Macara leads with integrity. She is thoughtful, transparent, and trusted by her peers. She understands that stewardship is not simply about managing finances; it is about ensuring resources are used wisely to advance the mission and create value for members.
